

ALBERT
SHANKER
INSTITUTE

Educating Democracy

State Standards
To Ensure
a Civic Core

By Paul Gagnon

ALBERT SHANKER INSTITUTE

Board of Directors

Paul E. Almeida
Anthony J. Alvarado
Morton Bahr
Barbara Byrd Bennett
David K. Cohen
Thomas R. Donahue
Andrea Feldman
Milton Goldberg
Ernest Green
J.D. Hirsch, Jr.
Sol Hurwitz
Nat LaCour
Seymour Martin Lipset
Stanley S. Litow
Herb Magidson
Edward J. McElroy
Tom Mooney
Diane Ravitch
Donna E. Shalala

Executive Director

Eugenia Kemble

Director of Programs

Burnie Bond

Director of Research

Randall Garton

Educating Democracy

State Standards
To Ensure
a Civic Core

By Paul Gagnon

Albert Shanker Institute
555 New Jersey Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20001
www.ashankerinst.org

ALBERT SHANKER INSTITUTE

The Albert Shanker Institute, endowed by the American Federation of Teachers and named in honor of its late president, is a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization dedicated to three themes—children’s education, unions as advocates for quality, and freedom of association in the public life of democracies. Its mission is to generate ideas, foster candid exchanges, and promote constructive policy proposals related to these issues.

The institute commissions original analyses, organizes seminars, sponsors publications and subsidizes selected projects. Its independent Board of Directors is composed of educators, business representatives, labor leaders, academics, and public policy analysts.

Paul Gagnon is Senior Research Associate at Boston University’s Center for School Improvement and an Emeritus Professor of History at the University of Massachusetts.

This work could not have been completed without the assistance of many individuals.

Among those who helped review the draft manuscript (but are absolved of responsibility for any remaining errors) are Leo Casey, Steve Fleischman, Matt Gandal, Heidi Glidden, Joy Hakim, E.D. Hirsch Jr., Harvey Mansfield, Charles Quigley, Diane Ravitch, Ruth Wattenberg, and Jay Winik.

A great deal of the groundwork was accomplished with the research assistance of Michael McClafferty, Stephanie Frank, and Ashley Makar.

Our thanks also go to the officials from the various state departments of education (plus DC and DOD) who took the time to provide needed materials, clarifications, and corrections, and to the national and state federation officials of the American Federation of Teachers who helped in the review and production of the final product.

This study was commissioned by the Albert Shanker Institute. The ideas expressed are those of the author and do not necessarily represent the views of the institute or the members of its Board of Directors.

Copyright ©2003 Albert Shanker Institute

Design: Bornstein Associates

Cover photograph: Adobe Image Library; Inside front cover and back cover photograph: Russ Curtis

Table of Contents

Introduction: Why this study and why a civic core? / 5

Why this study? / 5

Why a common core in a diverse society? / 6

Part One: How to educate democracy? / 9

What should be in a civic core? / 10

A civic core for the secondary grades: Vital topics / 12

Identifying strong standards: Five criteria / 16

General problems in state standards and frameworks / 18

The place of world history / 19

The balance between Western and non-Western studies / 21

State standards compared: An overview / 23

Part Two: Reviews of individual state standards / 31

Appendix A / 133

One model of a civic core: Key topics and starting points

Appendix B / 146

The civic core and the use of instructional time

Appendix C / 152

State responses

Appendix D / 193

“Education for Democracy: A Statement of Principles” (1987)
